What Price Son's Fame?

Glenn's Parents Enjoy Hubbub Engendered By Impending Flight, Display No Worry

This is the second of three articles on astronaut John Glenn by his college friend, Al Simpson. Both "double dated" during their college days at Muskingum College, both married their college-days girl friends and all four have retained their long-ago close friendship. Simpson is en route to Cape Canaveral, Fla., to cover Glenn's orbital flight for Brush-Moore Newspapers.

NEW CONCORD, Ohio — When the parents of a typical all-American - type boy rear him from the day of his birth, through the toddler stage, into the strippling years, through the tempestuous teens, into adulthood and then, suddenly see his star flash across the firmament of fame—like a space capsule, for instance — what do they think? How do they feel about it? How does it affect their lives? I asked Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr. about this.

JOHN'S FATHER says he and his wife can't quite believe it yet — that their son is the recipient of so much fame and that he will be in the history books.

But the elder Glenn does contend that "after John made the cross-country flight, I just felt from then on that he was going to go places."

Lt. Col. Glenn set a jet speed record of 3 hours, 23 minutes from coast to coast in 1957 as a Marine Corps pilot.

His father had thought young John would go into the plumbing business with him but World War II changed that.

And even before that the Civilian Pilot Training program ground school instructor at Muskingum College told the senior Glenn he felt he shouldn't discourage young John from flying because "in 20 years aviation will be one of the world's leading industries."

THE GLENNs replied in the affirmative when asked if their son was keenly disappointed at not being selected as the first American in space.

He definitely had the ambition to be the first man in space, they said, but now he seems very pleased to be the first American in orbit.

His father said when John was asked at the time of his record cross-country flight if he wasn't scared to be way up there flying at such tremendous speed, he replied:

Colorado Snow Slide Fatal To Six Persons

200 000 Tons
Of Snow Sweep
Over Four Houses

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP) — A giant mass of snow slid down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday, sweeping over four houses, and snuffing out at least six lives. Officials estimated more than 200,000 tons of snow plunged down the southern slope of 14,341-foot Mount Elbert in a 3½-mile run. It engulfed the western end of Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village 140 miles southwest of Denver. The avalanche was more than 300 yards wide and 15 feet deep.

One family was wiped out. G. L. Shelton, 50; his wife Marie, 40; their son Steve, 14, and daughters Linda, 9, and Vickie, 8, all perished.

Two persons were rescued from the buried wreckage of their home. William Adamich, 35, and his wife Barbara, 30, were hospitalized in Leadville with frostbite and possible internal injuries. Their son Billy, 8, was found dead. Another son, Michael, 10, was missing.

The other two houses were vacant.

About 600 persons worked more than six hours in the frigid mountain air probing the wreckage.

A neighbor, Nels Lindstone, 66, said that when he awoke at 8 a.m. he looked out of a window and saw only snow and wreckage where the houses had stood.

Lindstone said he tried to telephone the sheriff in Leadville, but telephone lines were down. He hailed a passing motorist to notify authorities.

Lindstone said he and a neighbor walked through the snow-covered wreckage until they heard faint cries for help. They started digging.

It was another two and one half hours before the two survivors were found. Mrs. Adamich was pinned beneath heavy timbers across her legs and abdomen. Her husband was about 75 feet away.

The avalanche followed a three-day storm that dumped 30 inches of snow.

Firemen answered a false alarm at Salem City Hospital at 5:33 p.m. Sunday. Acting Chief Elmer Bush said an unidentified person set off the alarm box.

W. New Guinea Truce Sought Sukarno Claims Settlement Welcome

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno reiterated today that Indonesia will welcome a peaceful settlement of the dispute with the Netherlands over West New Guinea. He also insisted again that any negotiations with the Dutch must be based on the transfer of the disputed territory's administration to the Indonesians.

Sukarno spoke during the installation of a new air force chief of staff, Air Vice Marshal Omar Dani. He replaces S. Suryadarma, who has been named military adviser to Sukarno.

Many of Indonesia's 96 million people have been shocked by the crisis over West New Guinea into taking a sober look at the affairs of their island republic.

A chain reaction of misadventure and political turmoil has rocked the Socialist republic in the past two weeks.

Events have included: Jan. 7: Assassins made a grenade attempt on the life of Sukarno in Makassar, killed five persons and injured 27. Sukarno blames the attack on Dutch-inspired agents.

Jan. 15: Dutch warships sank an Indonesian torpedo boat off the Issues Complaint to Bulgaria

Italy Rips Flight Over Missile Base

BARI, Italy (AP)—Italy strongly protested to Bulgaria the flight of a Communist supersonic jet carrying high-powered cameras over a secret Allied missile base near Bari, and Italian newspapers today raised the cry: "a new U2?"

The young Bulgarian air force pilot, dragged in tears from his wrecked plane, asked not to be turned over to Bulgarian consular officials, implying he was making a break for freedom.

Counter-intelligence agents were skeptical of his story and studied exposed film found in the Soviet-built MIG19. Officials pointed out that if he was defecting, he passed up several chances to land at Italian air fields before his plane crashed.

The armed fighter made two low-level passes over the missile base at Gioia del Colle—a new, close-guarded NATO installation—before slamming to the ground in a field Saturday only 2,000 yards from the base.

The Bulgarian consulate in a statement said the pilot, 2nd Lt. Miluse Solakov, 22, lost his way on a training flight in fog. It demanded the return of Solakov and the plane. The crash was 400 yards from the base.

Meany opened an AFL-CIO legislative conference attended by 500 union delegates who were to hear also from Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Meany said that while President Kennedy was right, in terms of production and economy growth, in saying recovery is proceeding reasonably well, it is also true that "we have barely touched the basic problem of jobs."

The union leader added in a prepared text:

"We have a solemn duty to remind the President—and the Congress—that the recession is not over and done with when four million Americans can't find jobs, when other millions are working only part-time, and when almost a million more who want to work don't even bother to look for the chance."

"The unemployed have become the invisible men in America," Meany continued. "They have become statistics instead of people. I say that's an attitude we simply can't afford."

Meany took pains to say, however, that he considers the President and his administration basically sound although in some areas "we do question their tactics."

The recession-fighting powers Kennedy is requesting for use in future years should be promptly enacted to apply to present conditions, Meany said.

"We need public works," he said, "not for the next recession but for this one. The standby power to cut withholding taxes should be available right now."

Sen. Joseph P. Clark, D-Pa., said in a speech prepared for a conference study session that he, too, feels a public works program should be made effective now without waiting for a future recession.

Urges Action Now To Prevent Future Slumps

Reports Nation Met
'61 Recovery Aims;
Wants Tariff Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reported today the nation met its recovery aims in 1961, is making "another giant stride" toward full employment this year, and can attain a "staggering" $600-billion worth of production in 1963.

The time to erect a defense-in-depth against future recessions is this prospering moment, Kennedy told Congress in his economic report. It was the third and last of the major White House messages to the new session.

The antislump weapons needed, he said, are his twin plans—sourly greeted by most Republican Congress members—for standby presidential powers to cut taxes temporarily and unleash federal money for quick-acting public works.

Kennedy urged Congress to let him trigger up to $2 billion of lending, spending and matching funds into the works plan when joblessness reaches danger points which he defined.

He also spelled out for the first time how much tax-cutting leeway he wants—enough, he said, to throw $5 billion of new buying power into a faltering economy in six months, or, if extended with Congress' assent, $10 billion in a year.

The cuts he proposed would be up to 5 percentage points in each income tax rate bracket. That would mean a one-fourth tax reduction for the lowest taxpayer group, but considerably less, in proportion, for the higher-income families.

Further, Kennedy said, this Congress should:

Empower him to "negotiate a reduction in the tariff of the European Common Market" with a gradual lowering of U.S. duties.

Lengthen jobless benefits permanently and enroll three million new workers under unemployment insurance.

Enact promptly the pending 8 per cent investment credit for industry.

He also called for repeal of the Silver Purchase Act, aid to education at all levels, health care for the aged under Social Security, job training for idle youths and job retraining for out-of-work adults.

The President pledged that this recovery will not be nipped off prematurely—as he said that of 1959 was—by a tight-money policy.

The outlook for stable living costs is favorable, he assured Congress, if unions and industry will show statesmanlike restraint in pay settlements to avoid a spiral of wage and price advance.

The President said the country has achieved the immediate aims

Robert F. Kennedy May Visit Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is weighing a Soviet invitation to visit Moscow, administration sources report.

If President Kennedy's brother accepts, he would stop off in the Soviet capital during a world trip that starts next month.

The attorney general is reported to have discussed the invitation with both the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Officials have declined to say what form the invitation took or when or how it was offered.

Robert Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, plan to leave Washington Feb. 2 for Japan. They will visit Indonesia, Iran and Germany and stop briefly in Hong Kong and Rome before coming home. He is scheduled to deliver a lecture at the Free University of Berlin.

If the Moscow visit materializes the Kennedys also may add Paris and London to their itinerary.

LaMonge Faces Trial In Warren Case

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Having secured a conviction of Trumbull County Democratic Chairman Frank A. Cickelli, the prosecutor is making plans for the trial of another of the seven persons indicted last fall in connection with Warren's sewer project scandal.

Cickelli was convicted Sunday on two counts, but the jury of six men and six women found him innocent on two other counts. The 51-year-old Cickelli, who has been Democratic chairman for 15 years and a member of the election board for more than eight years, was found guilty of aiding and abetting Raymond J. Little, former Warren city councilman, in soliciting a $35,000 bribe from two contractors on the $4.5 million sewer project.

The second charge on which he was convicted was that he acted in conspiracy with Paul LaMonge of Niles in accepting $10,000 from the contractors under false pretenses by representing himself as acting for former Mayor Walter Pestrak. Pestrak has not been linked by county officials with the scandals, and he testified during the five-day trial last week to deny any knowledge of the demand allegedly made in his name.

The jury, which deliberated more than 16 hours Saturday and Sunday before returning a verdict, found Cickelli innocent of counts of conspiring with LaMonge to extort $200,000 from two construction company officials by threats.

Orbital Flight Delayed 3 Days

Trouble In Capsule
Causes 4th Setback

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —United States' plans to send astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., three times around the earth were postponed a second time today, probably until next Saturday.

Reliable sources reported additional days were needed to completely check out faulty oxygen system in the environmental control system. This system, which feeds oxygen to the astronaut's pressurized space suit, developed problem during a checkout early today.

The discovery of the trouble prompted officials to call an immediate 24-hour delay of the shot, pushing it off from Wednesday until Thursday. Later, the sources reported, it was decided to make a complete check to insure all is right for Glenn's safety.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced a definite date for the firing, and therefore declined comment on the report.

The trouble developed in a hard-to-get-at spot in the capsule and the entire control panel had to be removed so technicians could correct it.

This is the fourth postponement of the launching. It originally was set for Dec. 20 when officials felt there was a chance to achieve manned orbit flight in 1961. When this was deemed impossible, the shot was put off until Jan. 16.

Problems with the Atlas booster resulted in another week delay, and minor capsule difficulty pushed the launching back still another day.

News of the postponement came as astronaut Glenn, like a superbly conditioned boxer closing out his training camp, began final preparations for the flight.

Robert Oswald has been promoted from comptroller of the Farmers National Bank to vice-president in charge of the bank's branch offices.

Oswald's name was accidentally omitted from Saturday's story of the bank's annual meeting when announcement of all bank officers and directors was made.

As vice-president, Oswald succeeded J. R. Sanders, who moved to Galion. Fred W. Koenreich, Jr., was appointed comptroller.

County School Board Elects Mrs. Strabley

LISBON — Mrs. Elizabeth Strabley of Salineville was elected president of the Columbiana County Board of Education at its reorganizational meeting Saturday in the Courthouse.

She succeeds Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers who has served as president two years.

Olin Sanor of East Rochester was elected vice president.

In other business the board passed its 1962 budget of $58,744.41. The amount is $3,134.30 more than the board spent in 1961 but is $70.36 less than the appropriation requested last year.

A breakdown of budget with last year's expenditures in parentheses follows:

Part A—supervisory teacher I,

$8,700 ($8,600); supervisory teacher II, $7,383.34 ($7,598.22); special educational teacher, $8,550 ($8,462.50).

Four Southern Local School Board members, Robert Skinner, Charles Allison, Jack Stewart and Miss Ruth McNicol were present and discussed problems involving the Franklin Local School District.

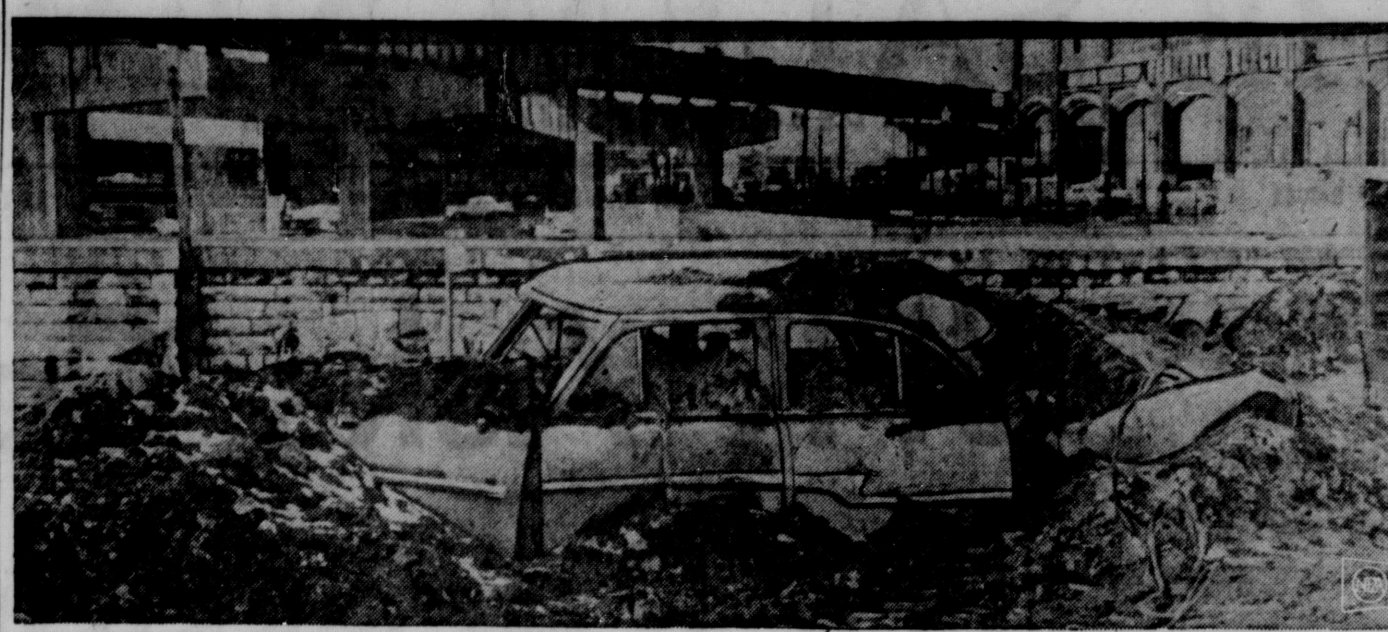

Because of a legal hassle which developed as a result of action by the Franklin District to merge with Carroll County schools, the district has been left without operating funds since it is listed on the tax duplicate as being a part of the Southern Local system.

The Southern Local Board will hold an emergency meeting Monday, and if Franklin Local's books are turned over to the board by that time, the board will certify the payment of the salaries of teachers, bus drivers, and janitors, along with the other bills.

The board also discussed the appeal of Common Pleas Court Judge Raymond S. Buzzard's ruling on allowing the entire Southern Local district to vote on whether Franklin can merge with Carroll County.

The appeal March 6 when it makes the 7th District Court of Appeals as soon as the preliminary three-day testimony is transcribed. It is hoped that the court will hear the appeal March 6 when it makes its semi-annual visit in the county.

Attendance officer Fred Lohman presented his monthly report which showed he made 45 calls and traveled 694 miles during December.

Examiners To Aid In Sales Tax Filing

To assist vendors in filing their sales tax returns, the Ohio Department of Taxation will have examiners at the City Hall building here Jan. 30, it was announced today by Leo J. Taugher of Salem, sales tax examiner.

Examiners will be available at the Keller Hardware Store in Columbiana Jan. 29, and at the Courthouse in Lisbon Jan. 31.

The final date for filing for the last six months of 1961 is Jan. 31, 1962. Delinquent filing of semi-annual returns subject the vendor to payment of $1 per day for each day the report is delinquent.

Vendors are reminded to bring with them when filing, their 2-61 sales tax return, a record of their last report, a record of their sales and prepaid tax receipts purchased during the period for which the return is filed.

The fact that the vendor may not have held a vendor's license for the full period from July 1, 1961, to Dec. 31, 1962, or if the vendor was not open for business during this period, or if he made no taxable sales or no sales would not justify his failure to file a return, Taugher warned.

It's Time for Repairs When Chairs Start To Squeak

Aside from being a source of embarrassment, chairs that squeak and rock when folks sit on them are unsafe.

Whenever it is apparent that a chair has a loose rung or weakened joint, retire it from active use until it is repaired. If a rung is loose, remove it and re-glue it. Remove all the old glue from surfaces. Use sandpaper or a file. A round file will clean out the hole in which the rung fits.

Chances are that gluing alone will not be sufficient. The size of the rung end will have to be increased for a tight fit. Saw a notch in the end of the rung. Make a small wedge of hardwood and place it in the notch. Apply glue to all surfaces and allow it to become tacky before joining the parts.

When the rung is inserted the wedge will force the end of the rung to expand, making a tighter fit. If excess glue squeezes out of the joint, wipe up quickly with a damp cloth.

Another method of tightening a loose rung is to use rung fasteners—bits of metal that have cleats that bite into both parts of the chair.

Once you've glued a joint, clamp it tightly. While there are special clamps for this purpose, light rope or heavy twine will work well. Wrap the rope around the part that's been repaired and around an opposite leg several times. Use a dowel rod or scrap of wood to insert between the strands of rope. Twist to tighten as you would a tourniquet.

The chair should remain clamped or tied at least 24 hours while the glue dries.

The glue will set best in a warm room, about 70 degrees or better.

You may want to repair more than one joint at one time. If others seem a little weak it might be wise to loosen them completely and re-glue. Rocking the chair, or tapping with a wooden mallet will separate rungs without damage.

If you are taking a chair apart, number the parts so that they will fit properly when re-assembled. Write the numbers on bits of adhesive or masking tape.

Seat frame joints can be reinforced with inside corner angle braces. These are metal braces that are fastened with screws. Or cut corner blocks to fit and glue (or use glue and screws) in place.

A wobbly chair can often be strengthened by pulling all four corners together with wire and a turnbuckle. Under the seat, where they can't be seen, place screw eyes in all four corners. Fasten two pieces of wire, one along each side, to the screw eyes. Leave enough slack so that they pass through the eyes of the turnbuckle. Then tighten.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: We have excessive moisture in our house and have been told that it is due to the crawl space underneath the house. However, the crawl space is well ventilated and the dirt does not appear to be wet. Can you tell us if the crawl space is the cause of the trouble and whether the condition can be corrected?

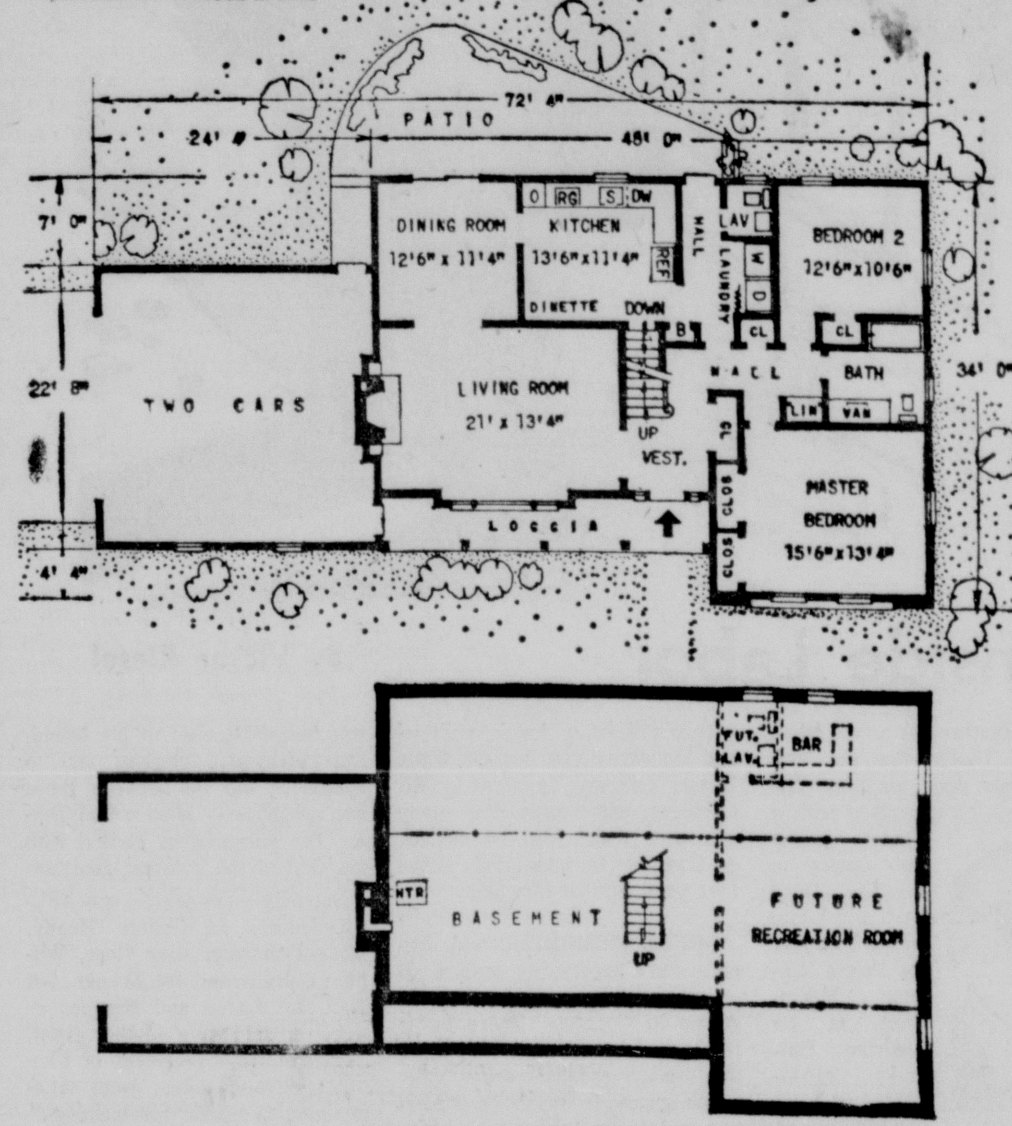

ANSWER: Excessive moisture in a house can be due to a number of causes. We can't say for certain that the crawl space is responsible in this case, but the chances are that it is.

The moisture coming up from the ground evaporates and passes upward into the house through the walls and floors. The rise of this moisture can be halted by using some kind of vapor barrier, such as roll roofing or a polyethylene film. It is spread on the ground within the crawl space, overlapped about six inches.

While it is true that excessive moisture in the ground usually is visible, there are times when it is not. This is especially true when the soil in the crawl space is clay. If you have an old small rug or something similar that is closely woven, place it on the ground within the crawl space and weigh down the edges with stones. Take it up in a few days. If the bottom of the rug is damp, excessive moisture is present no matter what the appearance of the ground.

EXPANSION HOME—This expansion home, Plan HA221V, was designed by Fenick Vogel, Room 75, 117 W. 48th St., New York 36, N. Y. The second floor provides two extra bedrooms and bath, and a basement with lavatory and recreation room can be added later. Hall on the 1,380 square-foot first floor gives good circulation between areas.

Thicker Insulation Prevents Wasted Heat, Lost Dollars

Good insulation can do more to cut your fuel bills today than ever before, says Popular Science Monthly in a recent article, "The Latest About Home Insulation."

"This is because fuel costs have skyrocketed 100 per cent or more in the last decade," the magazine points out, "while insulation costs have gone up relatively little."

Results of the recent tests prove that proper insulation can reduce fuel costs for both winter heating and summer cooling to $130 per year—about $11 per month.

Most home owners have a vague awareness of the value of insulation, but few recognize the importance of thickness.

What, then, is the proper thickness of insulation for comfort winter and summer, and economy for both heating and cooling? Here's what Popular Science has to say:

"A good yardstick that is rapidly gaining nationwide acceptance is the 6-3-2 rule."

"This means at least 6 inches of insulation under your roof, at least 3 inches in walls, and 2 inches under a floor that's over an unheated crawl space."

The super-thick 6-inch ceiling insulation is available in mineral wool bats for new construction and do-it-yourself insulation, or can be blown into ceilings of existing homes. Three-inch and 2-inch thickness of mineral wool come in both batts and blankets. Popular Science points out that manufacturers are fond of saying: "The best insulation is the most insulation."

"Within practical limits," the magazine says, "experts agree that every inch you add will cut your fuel bill."

Wise Homeowner Paints Pipes, Tags Shut-Off Valves

To most people, the basic plumbing system is the least noticed and understood essential facility of the home. When a trouble does develop, the homeowner too often is frantic and angry at himself.

Of course, he can't be expected to cope with major problems that arise in the system, but he can easily acquaint himself with how to handle small troubles and what to do in the event of a serious one until the plumbing contractor arrives.

To meet any problem without delay, you should be thoroughly familiar with the plumbing lines and shut-off valves in your home. If, for instance, a sudden break occurs in an old pipe, serious damage and inconvenience can be avoided by knowing how and where to turn off the water supply.

Also, all other utility services in your home have accessible shut-off devices for use when trouble arises or when repair-replacement work must be performed.

Every member of the family should be drilled on where all of these shutoffs are located and how they may be easily operated. For quick and accurate identification, the Longfellow era also—hand cutting the lath, carving the pegs and cutting pine boards to the right size.

Baker, who lives in Antrim, N. H., with his wife, painter wife Edith, supervises some 200 old houses every year for the Recommended colors for marking the piping are: red—hot water supply lines; blue—cold water supply lines; yellow—waste lines; and black—vent pipes.

Your plumbing contractor will be glad to identify all lines and valves for you. It will save you money and will eliminate inconvenience during small or large repairs to any part of the system.

Building Permits
The English Lutheran Church at the corner of Woodland Ave. and E. State St. has obtained a $1,500 building permit from the city to remodel its rest rooms by installing tile walls. Fred Rufer is the contractor.

George Kozar was issued a permit to make inside repairs at his residence, 466 S. Lundy Ave., at an estimated cost of $2,500.

Remember Its Period When Remodeling an Old House

Is your old house in need of repairs? If so, try to remodel it within its own period. That's the plea of Roy W. Baker, an expert on house restoration and member of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities.

"It's wicked to tear up a lovely old house the way some people do or to modernize it with a lot of modern doo-dads. A house is like a person in some ways, and you wouldn't think of cutting off your old-fashioned toes and replacing them with flashy modern digits."

THERE ARE WAYS to size up an old house and maintain its charms, says Baker, who has just helped restore the Wayside Inn, South Sudbury, Mass., the inn made famous by Longfellow.

"There isn't a nail or a smidgeon of glue in the framework of the building now," says Baker proudly. "The little excesses of recent vintage—dormers, porches, fireplaces and 19th century paneling all hit the dust too."

The first house was built in 1689. It had two rooms and sleeping quarters. The second house was built around 1714 when two more rooms were added. In 1740 a third edition and four more rooms were added to bring the house up to eight rooms.

"WE HAVE REMOVED everything that was added later than 1800 to put the house in the era that Longfellow knew in 1862," Baker says.

You can tell how old a house is by "fiddling around with the beams," Baker says. Styles of construction change and decoration—flakes of paint and scraps of paper buried under generations of paint and plaster—may give further clues to age.

The inn had been damaged by fire in 1955, and Baker worked tirelessly from that time to put the pieces together again. He has been digging, scraping and ripping out beams and floor boards, made the discovery that the house had three roofs, located an early ball room, and found the remains of an early fireplace by stumbling on some clay where bricks had once sat on a hearth.

"WHEN REMODELING an old house you should determine the structure first, where the windows were, where the studs were, where the room was, where the chimney was located. These all add clues to age. In the early days studs were from 19 to 23 inches, and pine floors from 12 to 20 inches," Baker explains.

His team of 40 workmen including his son duplicated working methods of the Longfellow era also—hand cutting the lath, carving the pegs and cutting pine boards to the right size.

Baker, who lives in Antrim, N. H., with his wife, painter wife Edith, supervises some 200 old houses every year for the preservation society, giving reports on each and constructive suggestions for repair that will keep them in the period to which they are best suited, and he says anyone can get advice about an

Salem Needs Route 62

The Salem Chamber of Commerce's highways committee has been keeping in close touch with Ohio Highway Department headquarters in Columbus concerning the eventual relocation of U.S. Route 62 in this area, but it is probably only natural that some persons would express concern over Highway Director Everett S. Preston's recent statement that he was "inclined to believe that a northern route near Alliance was proper."

He also said, in a talk at Alliance Friday, that when the final decision is made it will be made "in the best interests of the public."

IF ROUTE 62 IS diverted north of Alliance, as favored by spokesmen for that community, it would give another transportation artery to the region to our north, already served by principal east-west roads like Routes 224 and 18. Salem would suffer.

The rapidly-expanding northern Columbiana County area needs a new main highway badly and State Highway Director Preston and his engineers will be performing a real public service if they relocate Route 62 south of Salem.

At the present time, improved Route 62 east of Canton intersects with Route 44 in Stark County but a recent "plan of action" from the State Highway Department to the Salem City Planning Commission showed the proposed extension continuing eastward and passing both Alliance and Salem to the south. This path would give "62" an eventual terminus with the Rt. 11, the Lake-Erie to Ohio River road which will cut through Columbiana east of Washingtonville some years hence.

THIS MAKES SENSE to Salem civic and industrial leaders who have been striving for far too many years now to get highway improvements in this end of the state. This direction apparently is feasible from an engineering standpoint and, perhaps, is more economical.

For more than 10 years leaders of our community have been endeavoring to secure bypasses or throughways that would relieve the heavy traffic situation and also contribute to the district's future growth. The people of Salem have cooperated with City Council in providing funds to complete every arterial highway survey and comprehensive plan that the state demanded.

We think we have done our part and have been overly patient.

So, when State Highway Director Everett Preston indicates that a final determination on Route 62 is expected within the next three or four months, we can't help but feel that intelligent, objective thinking by the state will keep Route 62 in the Salem area.

Medical Care on the Right Track

The medical profession and hospitals finally may be on the right track with proposals for offsetting the popular appeal of health care for the aged under the Social Security system.

They have been reluctant to come to grips with the reality of their problem. They have been wasting breath on theories and wild fears about socialized medicine, when what they needed to do was offer a down-to-earth alternative.

All things being equal, the American people will not touch a public program if a good private program is available. The trouble with medical care for the aged has been the failure of doctors and hospitals to offset the yammer and clamor of the politicians with ideas of their own.

If they can firm up proposals for covering the high medical cost of being old and get as much attention for it as the politicians have been getting for their social security idea, they have a better than fighting chance to come out on top.

IT CANNOT BE DONE without a fight, much as the medical profession loathes the necessity of putting up a political struggle for its convictions.

Nor can it be done without willingness to make sacrifices, one of which will be tempering medical bills to the declining resources of aged patients whose earning power has been taken away, sometimes by compulsory retirement rules.

The strongest supporters of medical care proposals are often the families of the aged, who dread the possibility of being wiped out financially by the lingering death of an aged member. It is not politically administered security these families want; it is some way to insure themselves against ruin—some way as good as auto insurance, fire insurance and liability insurance.

If all doctors were as considerate in this matter as the best ones, if hospitals could adjust their rates to their patients' ability to pay, there would be no problem. There would be no threat of state medicine sneaking in by the back door.

IT WOULD BE cheaper in the long run and it would make more sense for doctors and hospitals to come to grips with the problem themselves instead of waiting for politicians to think up something dreamy, then fighting it.

Politicians always have the same dream—a little something for everybody, instead of everything necessary for those who need it. They go for the votes.

We'd like to see the doctors and the hospitals go tooth and nail for the problem of the aged and ill whose last days on earth at prevailing prices can turn what should be life's last great experience into life's last nightmare.

Coup-Coup In Dominican Republic

Judged by the alacrity with which it showed enthusiasm, the newest of the new regimes in the Dominican Republic is the one Americans are supposed to put their faith in. But a citizen-taxpayer feels like wondering in the fact of a $93 billion tax bite in the upcoming fiscal year whether this nation's money must go where its faith goes whenever there's a coup. In the Dominican Republic the coup are coming too close together to keep track of.

As soon as there is evidence of stability in the Dominican Republic, a proposal will be made to unload a few hundred millions on it to shore up its sagging finances. It will be pointed out, as it always is, that this will give a boost to Pan American relations and prospects. The Dominican Republic is one of the signatories to the Punta del Este Charter, which is the foundation for the Alliance for Progress.

Might it be feasible to ask that a government hoping to qualify for a share of the wealth the United States is eager to share with like-minded nations should demonstrate for a period of three years that it is like-minded before its application can be considered?

This does not imply that nations should have to keep the same government in power for three years to qualify. It implies that nations should have shown for three years they are like-minded, which would mean they give minorities the right to be heard as long as they don't start shooting and give the people the right to displace and replace politicians who have worn out their welcome.

It implies, also, that nations dominated by military minds and strong-arm techniques of government shall remain under suspicion pending proof their militarists have outgrown strong-arm viewpoints.

If this made it impossible for some of this country's best friends in Latin America to qualify, that would be bearable for a few years. By the time they had improved their practices, the United States might have improved its finances.

Once Over

New York World Fair officials announce again that a wall is being built against strip teasers and other carnival aspects. If customers want to see people with few clothes on, they will have to look at each other.

While there will be no strippers at the fair, it is announced there will be a replica of Las Vegas and a "Frontier Town," neither of which are certified Purity Leaguers. Reproduction of Las Vegas will be without gambling machines or dice tables. This may make it possible for customers to sue for deception. Las Vegas itself should see its lawyer. Frontier Town will cost $4 million. It will feature frontier saloons, sheriff's offices, cowboys, Indians and pretty girls in stagecoaches.

There will be no "Little Egypt" unless she sneaks in aboard a Conestoga wagon. Even cow ponies may be warned about showing legs. Nobody will exhibit a quarter-horse that outstrips anything. Indians are okay, but no "feather dancers."

It goes to show that appeal of the "Western" is strong, but oldtime World Fair fans will argue that Little Egypt could get more support "cutting horse thieves off at the pass" than the U.S. Cavalry and friendly Indians.

Shadow Over the Kremlin Wall

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Walter Reuther has a new front. A tuxedo. That's what the New Frontier has done for him. The redhead has compromised with a dinner jacket only thrice in his life. Once at a White House dinner for Prime Minister Nehru. Once at an Austrian Embassy reception. And most recently — at a banquet for Vice President Lyndon Johnson on the night of Jan. 12.

That night the new front was more than symbolic. It was political realism — for that was the night of a love feast between two blocs inside the Democratic party which have been feuding for decades.

One of the diners, after a letter from President Kennedy was read to the gathering, commented, "Now we have an alliance for progress inside the Democratic party."

The dinner also began symbolically at a reception in the Labor Department and wound up at tables in the Commerce Department's International Auditorium. It brought together in the most convivial fraternity "The Man of the South" and most militant and politically active of labor's northern leadership.

The political hatchet was buried as quickly as the specialty of the evening — Tortilla Noches Lady Bird — was consumed. It was all the idea of Secretary of Labor Goldberg. He has become a party harmonizer matching the harmony he evoked at the Metropolitan Opera.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman in Seattle who expects to be bombarded by visitors next spring when the Century 21 Exposition opens.

She should live in Reno. It's like Century 21 all year 'round. Two years ago we had 12 sets of house guests. I was pregnant nine months out of that year and felt rotten.

We hadn't lived in Reno long ourselves but the minute we got a permanent address our friends and relatives let us know how thrilled they were that we had moved to this exciting city. They always wanted to visit Reno and now they had people to stay with. Charming!

We hoped the novelty would wear off but no such luck. We've lived here six years and it's getting worse, not better. So, chin up, Seattle, Century 21 will be over in a year. Residents of Reno are trapped forever. — RENO-VATED.

Read On

Dear Ann: The Seattle woman thinks she has trouble? She should try living in New York. I used to laugh at that amusing line, "It's a great city to visit but I wouldn't care to live there."

It's a lot less funny since I've discovered that a great many people who don't care to live here

This will be a tough political and legislative year for the White House. This was apparent to Mr. Goldberg, who knows the many pressures which will be exerted on Congress by labor. This is the first year without Mr. Sam.

GREAT MEMORIES and legends don't necessarily conjure up great majorities for party programs in Congress. There never really had been a full healing of the understandable sensitivities which sprang from labor's opposition to Lyndon Johnson's nomination for the vice presidency.

For a long time, labor had blamed the South in general and frequently Mr. Johnson in particular, for the failure of their favorite bills in Congress.

There was need for a solid front, a cohesive coalition. Not only did the labor secretary see the need to bring together the leaders of the bustling and often mistrusting Northern and Southern blocs, there was need for closer understanding and cooperation between labor and the President's second-in-command on the home front.

There was need in the Democratic party for a buffer "state" —peopled mostly by Lyndon Johnson — in a year when the President would be constantly absorbed by foreign affairs.

The secretary of labor and Mrs. Goldberg arranged for the "peace" banquet. Mr. Goldberg paid for the party out of his own pocket. Mrs. Goldberg dug out Mrs. Johnson's favorite recipe — Tortilla Noches Lady Bird. This is tortilla fried to a crisp with cheese and calories. There was red snap-per Vera Cruz.

THE MEXICAN ambassador was asked because of his friendship with the Johnsons and to symbolize the tie between those two republics — Mexico and Texas. The guests were chosen with the skill of the political gourmet.

Not only were there such AFL-CIO leaders as George Meany, Dave Dubinsky, Alex Rose, William Doherty and Joe Keenan, but also Jim Carey and Reuther — whose tuxedo gave another guest, Jack Potofsky, president of the men's clothing union, great satisfaction. "It's good for business," Jack observed.

There too, were the legislative leaders — Mike Mansfield, Republican Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, Harlem's congressman, Adam Clayton Powell, Hale Boggs, House Democratic Whip, and Jim Roosevelt. In all there were some 80 guests.

ARTHUR GOLDBERG opened the festivities by reading from Theodore White's book, "The Making of a President." This has a section recounting the opposition of the labor men to Johnson. Goldberg said, now we will expunge this from the record and our memories. He raised his glass. So did the labor people. They meant it.

They had crossed the line — the Mason-Dixon line. They never again will automatically bristle either in Lyndon Johnson's political presence or that of many another Southern legislator.

Mark well the night of Jan. 12. A lot more than Walter Reuther's proletarian person had a new front. Southern political leaders and Northern labor chiefs did more than make merry and tell their favorite stories — they became fast political partners.

The Hall Syndicate

It got so bad last summer that whenever we saw a car pull up in the driveway with an outboard motor or fishing gear we closed the curtains and played dead.

It's a shame that people are forced to hide in their own home but when you live in Minneapolis there's no way out. — SITTING DUCKS.

Dear Ann: Tell Seattle she has a cinch. She should try Las Vegas. At least if she goes to the Exposition she'll see something. All we do in Vegas is gambling visiting firemen to gambling casinos. It's boring me to death.

Can you imagine anything more Dullsville than standing at the elbow of friends while they pull slot machine handles? Well, Dear Ann, THIS is my life. — IN A JACKPOT.

Dear Ann: The letter from Seattle gave me courage to speak my mind. We live in Louisville.

Every year at Derby time guests descend on us from all over. They even expect us to provide tickets to the Derby which are as scarce as left-handed harmonicas.

We hate to miss the Derby but next year we're taking it on the lam. We are going to Seattle to see Century 21. And Mrs. Landers, we will stay in a hotel. — ANTI-FREELoader.

Budget Misleading

By DAVID LAWRENCE

'Luxuries' To Eat Up Much of Outlay

Few persons know that the budget message of the President, just submitted to Congress, is a book of 112 pages containing all sorts of tables and statistics which never reach any considerable number of voters.

The taxpayers who foot the bill are never the less expected to rely on their senators and representatives to decide in their behalf whether a proposal to spend $92.5 billion a year makes sense. It's a record breaking amount for "peacetime" spending.

One would hardly guess, after reading the section of the message devoted to national defense expenditures, that the spending program for nonmilitary projects virtually ignores the existence of a world situation involving the possibility of a war.

The concept that sacrifices must be made when there's a war threatened or in progress — such as a "cold war" — is not given much weight.

The budget, instead, takes it for granted that America can spend as usual and afford more and more luxuries. More than 70 items either provide new expenditures never before undertaken by the federal government or increase existing expenditures on the nonmilitary side.

The President, of course, promises a balanced budget with what he calls a "modest surplus" of $463 million. But he admits he might be wrong.

Where he is likely to be mistaken is in his estimate of expected tax receipts. Corporations are expected to earn nearly $10.5 billion more in profits in the calendar year 1962 so that the government can derive $5.3 billion more in taxes in the 1963 fiscal year. Individuals are expected to increase their incomes to such an extent that they can pay the government $4.3 billion more than in the current fiscal year.

By the time June 30, 1963, rolls around most people probably will have forgotten the promise of a balanced budget. Besides, there will be the usual alibi about "unforeseen circumstances" or those "beyond our control."

The politicians will say that the deficit wasn't as big anyway as one of the last Eisenhower deficits and this supposedly will exonerate the present administration from blame.

IT IS SIGNIFICANT, however, that the Eisenhower administration did have two fiscal years of actual surplus out of its first four years, so it is desirable for the Kennedy administration to make at least a similar record or find itself in hot water politically in the 1964 campaign.

What is most disappointing about President Kennedy's budget is his assumption that, because certain expenses can be reduced, it is immediately necessary to find other ways to spend the same money. Debt retirement or a general reduction in taxes is given no consideration.

It is widely believed that the military side of the budget is the cause of all the big increases in federal expenditure. Actually national defense has gone up from $51.2 billion this year to $52.7 billion, or an increase of $1.5 billion. The rest of the budget, however, has gone up from $37.9 billion to $39.8 billion, or an increase of $1.9 billion.

Nowhere in the message is there much encouragement or stimulus for American business as a whole. Indeed, there are some discouraging factors, such as the administration's plan to throw a monkeywrench into the operations of American companies that have factories overseas which compete with Europeans and still send back big profits to the United States in the form of substantial dividends each year to be taxed here.

IN FACT, the administration itself is not too sure the nation is going to experience a substantial recovery from the recent recession. Hence the President put this cautionary note into his message:

"We do not expect another economic recession during the period covered by this budget. However, experience has taught us that periodic fluctuations in the economy cannot be completely avoided, and that federal fiscal policy should work flexibly and promptly in such situations. For this, we need standby plans. . . ."

Some of the proposals in this category call for reduction of income taxes for certain groups of taxpayers so as to induce consumer spending. Other recommendations favor more public works spending. But it is not explained how such big projects can be launched by the federal government and put into operation quickly enough to increase employment before the recession has run its course anyway.

Not a word in the message refers to the power of the big labor union monopoly to bring on another recession through a strike in steel or in other major industries or to the effect this might have on those $10.5 billion of extra profits for corporations which the President so confidently predicts and explicitly includes in his financial forecast to the American people.

Boy With a Hoe

By TRUMAN TWILL

"If you have a hoe lying around, hang onto it. Before long, your wife may want you to wire it up and turn it into a lamp. The hoe is rapidly joining the spinning wheel and the coffee-grinder as an antique — and for the same reason: Science and technology can do the job better."

The rest of the story that started out with this paragraph was about killing weeds with chemical sprays. I admit the truth of the story. The man with the hoe is as out of date as the man with a walking plow. It makes me feel like an anachronism, because I began to earn my living with a hoe.

My old man did not believe kids should spend their summers in idleness. When I first displayed symptoms of wanting to live like the kids who thought their old man had it made, he rustled up a job for me. As I recall the situation, I was 12 when he told me he had arranged for me to work at a nursery.

The job was hoeing. If it had continued to be hoeing, I'd have been off on the right foot. But one day the nurseryman would tell me to pick strawberries. Another day I'd be picking currants. When another place up the road offered a job at straight hoeing, I switched. I had a bellyful of currants and strawberries.

For a month I hoed lima beans. The idea was to discourage the weeds until the bean plants could get started. Later on, I had another hoeing job — sweet corn. Again the project was to discourage the weeds until the plants could get a head start.

One way and another, for hire and my own amusement, I have hoed everything there is to hoe. As a general contention, I feel that with a well sharpened and well-balanced hoe I can do anything in the weed-killing line that's worth doing.

It was by virtue of a hoe that I learned a singular fact about myself before the time when such things as right-handedness and left-handedness were catalogued and taken into account. I learned I was ambidextrous, though lean-

I tended to do things like hoeing, raking, shoveling and working with hand tools left-handed but things like writing, eating, drinking and using the telephone right-handed. You learn a thing like that in a hurry when a gang of bean-hoers start out at the end of a quarter-mile row all hoeing right-handed and you are the only one lined up on the wrong side.

All of which is preparatory to wondering how things are in the tool shed after all this time since last August and maybe it's not too soon to get the hoe, rake, shovels, trowels into shape in case summer comes unexpectedly.

With a hoe, the big thing is the cutting edge — all three sides — like knives. A hoe must be so sharp that no matter what direction it moves whatever is ahead of it gets sliced off clean and close.

There are millions of people who never saw an expert go through a garden with a hoe, cutting off the weeds, pulling the dirt into place around the plants, landscaping, grading, eradicating, pulverizing and packing, all with a series of deft and almost imperceptible motions.

Chemical sprays are making the hoe obsolete. They say a hoe is too slow, that it's inefficient. Of course it is.

But some of us who fool around in gardens for fun and once knew the hoe as a day-long companion are not going to get mellow about killing weeds with chemical sprays. We killed 'em in hand-to-hand combat. With a hoe, no less.

Wilson S. Campbell, 30, of Imperial, Pa., forfeited a $10 bond in Mayor Dean B. Cramer's court for making an improper right turn which police said was the cause of a two-car accident at the intersection of E. State St. and Ellsworth Ave. at 7 a.m. today.

According to police, Campbell made a right turn from the wrong lane and was hit by a car driven by Robert Tafini, 21, of 233 W. Maple St., Lisbon, who was in the right lane going straight ahead.

munist pressures if it is going to bring to fruition hopes for an economic upsurge to counter the yeasty extremist ferment in Latin America.

Rep. Armistead Selden, Alabama Democrat and chairman of the House Inter-American Affairs Committee, told newsmen that unless the foreign ministers take strong action against Cuba that "things could be disagreeable in Congress" when the Alliance for Progress appropriation comes up.

Other authoritative U.S. sources said there probably would be a big cut by Congress in the $3 billion Kennedy earmarked for the program because of the alarm over Cuba among U.S. voters.

The Central American nations continued to insist they are ready to walk out of the conference if it avoids punishment for Castro.

The OAS foreign ministers have several possible actions to choose from.

First they must decide whether Cuban communism is a threat to "the peace and political independence" of the Americas. If so, they must decide what they will do about it.

They can by a two-thirds vote collectively break off diplomatic relations with Cuba, or impose economic sanctions, or both. This would require affirmative votes by 14 of the 21 nations. Thirteen, including the United States, already have broken relations with Cuba, and could be counted on to back collective action.

Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador, Mexico and Uruguay still maintain diplomatic ties with Cuba. One of these seven will have to be won over or the move for sanctions will fail.

Arraignment

sent to Lima State Hospital for a 30-day period of observation.

Sentenced after pleading guilty were William Virgil Cope, 20, of Alliance, non-support, 1-3 years in the Ohio State Reformatory, and James Saunders, 17, driving a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, three months in the county jail. The charge of auto larceny against Saunders was dropped at the request of Prosecutor G. William Brokaw. Saunders has been confined to the county jail for almost four months.

James Robert Dillinger, 19, of 213 S. Market St., Lisbon, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a tool shed.

James Parks, 19, of Hammondsville RD 1, and James Arthur House, 19, of Salineville RD 1, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering an auto accessory warehouse near Salineville. Dillinger, Parks and House, all asked for probation investigation.

Trials for defendants pleading not guilty have been set tentatively for Feb. 5 and will be heard before Judge Buzzard.

A United Local High School class taught by Mrs. Mary Hart attended the arraignment this morning.

Bus Firm Asks Okay To Abandon Route

The Greyhound Corporation has applied to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for permission to abandon its bus route between Twinsburg, Streetsboro, Ravenna, Salem and Firestone Corners (junction of Rts. 7 and 14) via Rt. 14.

Service between these points via this route has been suspended since Nov. 15, 1961. Prior to that time, one round trip per week had been operated.

Delay

He was scheduled to make one more simulated orbit flight in a ground-based capsule and then go into a tapering off period. The final preflight days mostly will be taken up with medical checks, a final briefing, running on the beach to stay in shape and, inexorably, waiting.

In the past three weeks, he has flown 60 theoretical flights, rehearsing every possibility that could be rehearsed, and in the process has landed in the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific Oceans. (hypothetically, that is.)

How does he feel?

"He feels pretty confident, calm and collected," reported Dr. Robert Voas, psychologist and one of the astronaut's training officers. "I'm sure there has been some increase in tension—you can't approach a great adventure like this without some of that. But he feels well prepared. He wants to get going."

"He continues to be fascinated by what he will see over the earth. He looks forward to this not only as a great adventure but a great voyage of discovery and he doesn't want to miss a thing about the stars or the land masses or cloud conditions or other factors that could be of value to scientific knowledge."

Along with intensive physical examinations in the last two days, Lt. Col. Glenn, Marine Corps, will be interviewed by a psychiatrist and put through a battery of psychological tests to evaluate his emotional level before takeoff into space.

Most of the tests are simple, the kind a job applicant might have to take in the personnel office of any progressive industry.

On the last Sunday before his scheduled shot, Glenn gave little indication of tension. He attended the Riverside Presbyterian church in Cocoa Beach, prayed, joined the hymn-singing in a sturdy tenor, signed autographs for Sunday School kids and generally acted like a man who wasn't going anywhere more dangerous than a desk in a business office.

LIONS CLUB SPEAKER

Elden R. Groves, editor of Farm & Dairy, will speak to Lions Club members at their weekly dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Lape Hotel. Robert Miles is program chairman.

Local Lions are expecting to attend the district meeting in Youngstown Feb. 23-24. A memorial service to deceased members will be conducted at that time by Rev. Fr. William Witt of Salem's St. Paul Catholic Church.

a thrill, try driving from Washington to New Concord on a Saturday night."

AND WHAT do the Glenns personally feel about their son's fame and the changes it has brought into their lives?

"We enjoy it," they said, "just as you would enjoy it if your kids did something."

They're anticipating scurrying around between two TV sets and switching the antenna rotor between Wheeling and Steubenville stations in one direction and the three Columbus stations in the other.

They plan to be alone in their home at the time of the launch while Dr. and Mrs. Homer Castor will be at the side of their daughter in her Arlington (Va.) home.

THE SENIOR GLENNs will go to the college gymnasium following the launch. There the major TV networks are set up to carry programs from New Concord during the 4½-hour orbital flight.

As we visited with the Glenns recently in their neat living room here, it was hard to visualize the room filled with cables, cords, lights, floodlamps and wires everywhere, as well as with cameramen, engineers and technicians.

But they assured us it had been when ABC did a program on John's home town and again when NBC did the same.

ARE THEY WORRIED about the impending flight of their astronaut son? If they are, it isn't obvious. Perhaps it's because they know so much about the entire Mercury project.

We were impressed by the keen interest in the various aspects of the project as manifested, for example, by Glenn's interest in showing his teen-age sons the picture of the program and explaining it as well.

Yes, it was a memorable Sunday afternoon we spent in New Concord as guests, Mrs. Castor entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Sr. and Mr. and Mrs.orthy of the adulation of the world?

We think We believe America can very proud of them.

P.S.: As at the conclusion of Glenn's last, once again it was our home, realize we actually were in the entire world soon will be watching.

Ne was on the line, request permission to send a crew in the Glenns the next day.

all chuckled and Mrs. Glenn said: "Well, that's all three of them now!"

Carrigg To Seek GOP Support For Congress

John J. Carrigg of Steubenville, professor of history at the College of Steubenville, said today he will seek the Republican nomination for congress from the Ohio 18th District at the May primaries.

He is serving his second term as a Steubenville city councilman. He is an army veteran and a graduate of Georgetown University.

Congressman Wayne L. Hays of Flushing, a Democrat, previously announced he will seek re-election.

J. F. K.

he set a year ago—to "recover not from one but from two recessions"—by starting the economy uphill and reducing joblessness while keeping price stability. "Confidence in the dollar has been restored," he said.

This year national output should rise about $50 billion above the $521 billion of 1961, he predicted, adding: "This would be another giant stride toward a fully employed economy."

Kennedy disclosed he would have asked a tax increase to cover the steep rise in spending necessitated by last spring's Berlin crisis if the economy had been in better shape.

For the first time since the Truman administration, the annual economic message specified goals which, in the President's opinion, would accomplish the intent of the Employment Act of 1946. That law committed the government to policies which would maintain "maximum employment, production and purchasing power."

Any doubts that Kennedy means business about his antirecession program were dispelled by the serious and urgent tone of the message. On the tax-cutting, pay pump priming and jobs-creating proposals he said: "They constitute the greatest step toward in public policy for economic stability since the (New Deal) act itself."

The prime goal for 1963 is a 4 per cent unemployment rate, Kennedy said. He called this a "temporary target," third below the present 6.1 per cent rate of joblessness.

With it, the President said, would come the record-breaking dollar measures of prosperity.

Sixty billion dollars of before-tax business profits, as against $46 billion last year and a hoped-for $56 billion this year.

Some $20 billion in wages and salaries against $280 billion in 1961.

At $600 billion worth of output of goods and services, far above last year's $521 billion and year's anticipated $565 billion $570 billion.

Kennedy stressed that while the material gains are themselves staggering, as blueprinted by his report, his goal for unemployment—down to 5 per cent by the end of this year, 4 per cent by mid-1963—were not the final objectives.

"We cannot afford to settle for any prescribed level of unemployment," the message said.

He replied to the outcry already raised in Congress by the first mention of his standby tax and public work proposals in the State of the Union message. The revenue loss would be smaller than what a recession costs in pay and production losses and shrunken tax collections, he said. And Congress would write into the law the safeguards to protect its taxing power, he argued.

"I am not asking Congress to delegate its power to levy taxes," Kennedy added, "but to authorize a temporary and emergency suspension of taxes by the President—subject to the checkrein of Congressional veto—in situations where time is of the essence."

The tax cut "would remain in effect six months, subject to revision or renewal by the same process"—that is, by presidential action, subject to veto—or extension by a joint resolution of Congress.

In equivalent detail Kennedy spelled out his request for power to "accelerate and initiate" up to $2 billion of works projects when unemployment is rising.

The President could act, under this plan, within two months after the unemployment rate (1) had risen in at least three of four months and (2) had risen at least 1 percentage point higher than its level four months earlier. These time periods could be lengthened if Congress preferred, the message indicated.

Before taking action, the President would have to make a finding that "current and prospective economic developments" required such measure, under the Employment Act.

His proposals for bolstering jobless pay were familiar in the main, having been laid before Congress last year and modeled after the temporary measures taken by Congress in the last two recessions.

Kennedy suggested "incentives" for the states to improve their jobless benefits, so that most idle workers would receive at least half their average weekly wage.

Kennedy suggested that Congress "will wish to examine carefully" proposals for removal of the ceiling on the federal debt and the 4½ per cent ceiling on the interest rates on Treasury bonds. But he did not directly ask their removal.

However, in his budget message Kennedy asked that the "temporary" debt ceiling be boosted to $308 billion. The debt now is pushing against the present limit of $298 billion.

Cickelli was convicted carries a sentence of 1-10 years in Ohio Penitentiary. Common Pleas Court Judge G. H. Birrell delayed sentencing and continued the $10,000 bond under which Cickelli has been free, pending an appeal.

Cickelli's counsel indicated a motion will be filed for a new trial.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor Lynn B. Griffith Jr. indicated LaMonge will be tried next, although no date for a trial has been set.

Little and two other former Democratic members of Council are in Ohio Penitentiary serving 1-10 year terms for bribery. Still to be tried, along with LaMonge, are James Soda, president of the Soda-Luscher Construction Co. of Niles, and James Matash of Warren, a professional bondsman.

OSU Faces Tough Test In Clash With Purdue Tonight

Dischinger Will Play With Cast on Finger

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes face a major obstacle tonight—possibly one of the toughest they'll encounter this season.

The Buckeyes, unbeaten in 13 games and No. 1 in the nation, take on Terry Dischinger and the Purdue Boilermakers in the first of a home and home series that could have a major bearing on the Big Ten conference standings and the national rankings. They play again next Monday.

Ohio State, of course, is favored. But if All-American Dischinger and his mates catch Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and Co. on a cold night, it could be interesting. Dischinger will play with a cast on the little finger of his right hand, jammed in practice Saturday.

Purdue is 10-3 for the season, 3-1 in the league and was in the top five before falling to Southern California (No. 6).

The deep and talented Buckeyes have been pressed only once in running up their best-in-the-nation record. Their victims include two of the three teams that have beaten Purdue. The Boilermakers fell before Wichita 71-68, Southern California 80-63 and Minnesota 81-67. Ohio State took Southern Cal 76-66 and Saturday chalked up a solid 90-76 decision over Minnesota.

Also on tap tonight is Michigan (3-10) at Minnesota (6-8) in another Big Ten game. The schedule, light all week because of midsemester examinations, also includes Maryland, Miami (Fla.), Washington State at Stanford and Murray at East Tennessee.

Wichita pulled the biggest upset of the weekend, turning back ninth-ranked Bradley 89-88 in spite of a 40-point performance by the Braves' Chet Walker.

The victory put Wichita in contention for the Missouri Valley title. Wichita is 5-2 in the league and 14-4 overall. Bradley is 4-1 and 11-3.

All other top teams in action Saturday came through on schedule. Fifth-ranked Duquesne stopped St. Vincent's (Pa.) 85-53. Eighth-ranked Bowling Green ran its record to 14-1 with a 68-55 decision over Marshall and 10th-ranked Mississippi State (12-1) beat Mississippi 61-57.

Cincinnati Trips Dayton, Duquesne

Lucas Scores 32 As OSU Rips Minnesota

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State's fabulous Jerry Lucas is rolling along as serenely as ever.

The 6-foot-8 Middletown All-American poured in 32 points and picked off 18 rebounds Saturday as the unbeaten Bucks battered Minnesota 90-76.

The tall one gets a chance to enhance his laurels tonight when Purdue, third in the Big Ten with a 3-1 mark and 10-3 overall, invades the Buckeye field house.

So here's a fast interim look at what Jerry's accomplished.

He has scored 294 points in 13 victories for a 22.6 average. As a sophomore he scored 710 in 27 for a 26.3 average, and as a junior he hit 67 for 27 for 24.8.

His current 294 gives him 1,665 for 67 games at Ohio State for an "on the nose" collegiate career average of 25. During his varsity days the Bucks have won 65 of 69. Jerry was sidelined in two. He has picked up 242 rebounds this year for a career total of 1,154.

Only player ever to make the All-Ohio high school team three years in a row, Lucas scored 2,460 points in winning 76 of 77 games for Middletown, including two state championships. For 144 high school and college tilts he has a 4,135 point total for a 28.6 average.

Against the Minnesota club he cashed 14 of 17 tries from the field, 4 of 5 from the free throw line. He has an amazing 117 of 183 from the field, and 60 of 76 charity tosses this season.

He has made the All-America team twice, starred on the victorious U.S. Olympic team, is a cinch to make All-America again—but says he isn't interested in turning professional where a Fort Knox payoff awaits him.

The Buck-Boilermaker classic tonight is the big game of this week's abbreviated schedule. Semester exams are on tap in most colleges, and activity is sparse up to next Saturday's 16-game slate.

In last week's program the Ohio clubs divided 18 games with out-of-state teams, running their season's interstate record to 129 wins, 78 defeats and a scoring edge of 15,308 to 14,163. Familiarity with the home hardwoods has given the host squads 206 victories this season, the visitors winning only 113.

One glaring example of home floor help is the Cedarville-Ohio Northern set. At Cedarville the hosts won 89-85, but the Polar Bears turned the tables 90-58 at Ada Saturday night. It was Northern's third Mid-Ohio loop win of the week, and moved it into a 5-1 top-place tie with Ashland.

Xavier, which hasn't lost a home game this year—but has dropped seven on the road—was whipped 85-60 at Louisville last week and then swamped Miami 81-68 at home. Cincinnati, after dropping an overtime tilt to Bradley at Peoria, rebounded last week to trim Dayton 80-61 and Duquesne 62-54.

Ohio University nipped both Miami and Kent State and climbed into second place in the Mid-American with 4-2, as Bowling Green turned back Kent State 68-56 and Marshall 68-55 to run its loop total to 6-0 and its overall to 14-1—good enough for a spot in the nation's top 10.

Wittenberg won its 40th straight Ohio Conference fray, 64-42 over Denison, but faces a tough test this week. The Tigers to against Baldwin-Wallace, 2-1 in the circuit, at Berea, and the long string could end there. The tilt is Friday night.

Jim Kress, Crestview's 6-foot-7 scoring ace, held to only nine points by Lowellville, dumped in 29 against the Indians to keep his average up near the top of the county scoring leaders. Also high for the winners were Earl Wolfgang with 14 and Ray Brown with 10.

Senior Jack Baker, tallying over half his team's points, was high for Salineville with 25 markers.

Both quintets will see action again Friday night, with Crestview on the road at North Lima and Salineville traveling to Stanton Local.

Snow Delays Crosby Tourney

Campbell Leads Pack With 210

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—You can't golf in the snow, so the $50,000 Bing Crosby tournament still wasn't finished today.

Usually, the leader after four days here pockets a $5,300 check, but not Hoosier Joe Campbell. He led with a six-under-par 210 through 54 holes and then took an enforced rest as "casual hard water" at Pebble Beach Sunday brought a one-day postponement of the final 18 holes.

Hail and snow, unheard of previously in the 25-year history of the crooner's golf production, fell in abundance.

Gardner Dickinson watched it bury his golf ball on the first fairway before tournament officials decided players weren't like postmen, whose appointed rounds aren't stayed by rain, snow or sleet.

Campbell, of Pendleton, Ind., former national collegiate champion at Purdue, felt that an even par 72 today over the soggy Pebble Beach Course could win him the tournament. Yet he respected the foul weather skill of veteran Doug Ford of Vernon Hills, N.Y., who finished the third round in second place, just two strokes off the pace.

"Doug is a Houdini playing in bad weather and might well finish with a brilliant round," the 26-year-old Campbell commented. "But he's like the rest of us. He could shoot a 69 or a par 72 or, with unlucky breaks, even a 75."

Two strokes further back at 214 were Phil Rodgers, the youngster from San Diego who won the Los Angeles Open this year, and Ken Venturi of San Francisco, who twice won the California amateur title here and took the Crosby in 1960.

Nine strokes ahead of the field in the pro-amateur were young pro Bob McCallister of Yorba Linda, Calif., and little lefthander Albie Pearson, the Los Angeles Angels outfielder. They carded a best-ball 185.

United Wins; Evens Loop Mark At 3-3

Coach Larry Joseph's United High basketball team evened its Turnpike Conference record at 3-3 and advanced its over-all mark to 66-5 with a 45-31 win over Warren St. Mary's Saturday night at Warren.

The loss was the ninth in 11 starts for Coach John Gillen's St. Mary's quintet and moved its loop mark to 1-5.

United moved to a quick 13-7 bulge after one period and then continued to pour it on with a halftime margin of 27-18 and 37-23 after three quarters.

Senior forward Jerry Schaffer, Columbian County's scoring leader, again paced the Golden Eagle attack with 16 markers, while teammate guard John Hanna was also in double figures with 14. Dennis Shaughnessy featured for the losers with nine tallies.

The Golden Eagles hit a 30.5 per cent from the field with 18 of 59 attempts and meshed nine of 19 charity tosses for a 47.0 average. St. Mary's dumped in only 13 of 58 fielders for a 22.4 shooting percentage and were successful on five of 11 fouls for a 45.0 per cent average.

United took rebounding honors with 41 saves to 31 for the losers. Schaffer also led in this department with 17, while teammate Jim Sturgeon had 10.

In the preliminary contest, the United Reserves were also victorious with a 59-29 decision over the Warren St. Mary's Jayvees.

Both teams will be in action Friday night in league play, with St. Mary's at Springfield Local and United at home with Canfield, the undefeated conference leader.

Edges Frenchman by Two Inches

Beatty Nips Jazy In Indoor Mile Run

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Diminutive Jim Beatty, still chasing indoor track's first four-minute mile, gets a new shot at the mark Feb. 10 in Los Angeles—against competition virtually as tough as Michel Jazy of France.

"The first half was slower than we expected," said Beatty, explaining why he and Jazy ran only 4:04.8 Saturday in the Los Angeles invitational indoor meet.

Thanks to a longer lunge at the tape, Beatty beat the French lino-type operator by two inches, though each had the same time in the highlight event of a star-studded meet.

The splits—61.5, 2:05.0, 3:07.4—testify to the brilliant duel the pair waged in the final quarter mile after a slow start. Occidental's Leroy Neal, the former junior college 880 record-holder, was counted on to lead the field through a 2-flat half mile, but he couldn't force the pace.

So Beatty took the lead through the middle of the race until Keith Forman of Oregon surprisingly pulled ahead with three laps to go on the 160-yard board track. Then Jazy came on to lead by a yard with a lap to go. Beatty kicked strong, lost two yards when Jazy held him off on the final turn, but gained inch-by-inch until his final lunge.

In the Los Angeles Times meet Feb. 10 Beatty will face two other champs from Saturday's meet: Jim Grelle, the ex-Oregon ace who barely won the 1,000 in 2:10.7, and Laszlo Tabori, the former Hungarian Olympian, a one-tenth winner at two miles in 9:00.4.

Despite the failure to flirt with four minutes, it was still the best indoor mile for Beatty, named the meet's outstanding athlete. Tennessee A & I provided the surprise and the disappointments of the meet—Jean Holmes' 7-1 sprint victory over Olympic triple medal winner, Wilma Rudolph Ward, and Ralph Boston's failure to better 24 feet 11 inches in the broad jump.

Tops in the field events was the pole vault, won by John Rose of Arizona State at 15 feet, 5 1/2 inches—cleared on his third vault.

McGaha said shortstop Woodie Held, rightfielder Willie Kirkland, third baseman Bubba Phillips, left fielder Tito Francona, and first baseman Vic Power would be in the lineup. He wasn't sure, however, whether they would appear at their old spots.

Gene Green, obtained in a trade with Washington, Jerry Kindall, who the Indians got in a swap with the Chicago Cubs, Mike de la Hoz, and rookie Guy Cline will see plenty of action, McGaha said.

He insisted he would give the rookies in camp every chance to make the grade. "If a kid looks good to me," he said, "and if I think he can play in the majors, we'll keep him. I don't care where he was last year."

plaining why he and Jazy ran only 4:04.8 Saturday in the Los Angeles invitational indoor meet.

Thanks to a longer lunge at the tape, Beatty beat the French lino-type operator by two inches, though each had the same time in the highlight event of a star-studded meet.

The splits—61.5, 2:05.0, 3:07.4—testify to the brilliant duel the pair waged in the final quarter mile after a slow start. Occidental's Leroy Neal, the former junior college 880 record-holder, was counted on to lead the field through a 2-flat half mile, but he couldn't force the pace.

So Beatty took the lead through the middle of the race until Keith Forman of Oregon surprisingly pulled ahead with three laps to go on the 160-yard board track. Then Jazy came on to lead by a yard with a lap to go. Beatty kicked strong, lost two yards when Jazy held him off on the final turn, but gained inch-by-inch until his final lunge.

In the Los Angeles Times meet Feb. 10 Beatty will face two other champs from Saturday's meet: Jim Grelle, the ex-Oregon ace who barely won the 1,000 in 2:10.7, and Laszlo Tabori, the former Hungarian Olympian, a one-tenth winner at two miles in 9:00.4.

Despite the failure to flirt with four minutes, it was still the best indoor mile for Beatty, named the meet's outstanding athlete. Tennessee A & I provided the surprise and the disappointments of the meet—Jean Holmes' 7-1 sprint victory over Olympic triple medal winner, Wilma Rudolph Ward, and Ralph Boston's failure to better 24 feet 11 inches in the broad jump.

Clippers Rap Louisville For 8th Victory

Columbian High School's Clippers cagers, rebounding after a loss to unbeaten Poland Friday night, rolled over hapless Louisville 58-41 on the winner's court Saturday night.

The win was the eighth in 11 starts over-all for the Clips and moved their Tri-County League mark to 5-2, second only to Poland. The Leopards, having a dismal year, are now 2-9 for the season and 2-5 in the loop.

Columbiana moved out to an early 14-6 first period lead and were never headed, building the margin to 33-16 at halftime and 43-22 after three quarters.

Senior Ken Gallagher and junior Dale Murphy sparked the winner's attack with 13 points apiece. Senior guard Larry Miller was top man for Louisville with 11 tallies. Jim Ward of the Clippers was also in double figures with 12 counters.

Both teams will be in league action again Friday, with Columbian entertaining Leetonia and Louisville traveling to Poland.

Warriors Suffer Second Defeat

West Branch Surprised By Springfield Local 76-65

Coach Joe Tucker's West Branch Warriors suffered their second defeat in three games after rolling along undefeated in eight contests this season when league opponent Springfield Local rolled 76-65 on the winner's hardwood Saturday night.

A hot night by the Tigers proved to be too much for the Warriors as five players on the winning quintet hit in double figures. Senior Jim Allen, with a 23-point spurge, led the way, while teammates Dick McPherson and Ron Soneckecker each had 14, Ted Slagle meshed 12 and Dick Brungard garnered 11.

West Branch also displayed a balanced scoring machine, with four starters hitting in double digits. Senior forward Dan Dennis featured with 15 tallies, with fellow Warriors Dick Wallace hoop- ing 13, Chuck Wilson 12 and Tom Roberts 11.

The West Branch quintet moved out to an impressive first period bulge of 15-9, but the home boys found the range in the second frame and moved ahead to stay 29-25 at halftime. The Tigers extended the margin to 46-38 heading into the final stanza.

Springfield Local claimed the victory at the foul stripe by hitting 22 of 26 attempts for a 85.4 average, while West Branch dumped in 17 of 29 for a 58.6 percentage. From the field both teams were about even in shooting, with the winners sinking 27 of 63 tries for a 42.9 per cent accuracy and the losers 24 of 58 shots for a 41.4 average.

Two players on each squad left the game in its late stages via the foul route in a game that saw numerous infractions committed on both sides.

Springfield also took rebounding honors with 33 saves to 30 for the Warriors. Dennis took individual honors on the boards with 10 rebounds, while Soneckecker paced the home team with nine.

The Warriors are now 4-3 in the Turnpike Conference and 9-2 over-all, while Springfield, on a three-game win streak, is also 4-2 in the loop and is 8-4 for the season.

West Branch's Reserves turned the tables in the preliminary contest with a 47-3 decision over the host Jayvees.

Milwaukee Braves Sign Key Players

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer Milwaukee's 1-2 power punch for almost a decade, Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews, have signed their contracts, joining a determined band of Braves itching to get the 1962 baseball campaign underway.

Apparently stung by last year's fourth-place finish, the Braves have been rushing to the front office and inking contracts in rapid succession. The Aaron-Mathews signing Saturday concluded a productive week for the Braves' brass.

Earlier last week, Warren Spahn, baseball's highest paid pitcher, and Del Crandall, No. 1 catcher in the National League until he developed a sore arm last season, came to terms. The Braves now have 18 satisfied signees.

The signing of Aaron and Mathews cost the Braves more than $100,000 but President John McHale wouldn't be pinned down on whether one or both received raises. Their salaries are reportedly between $55,000 and $60,000.

McHale said he didn't know of "any two sluggers who have been as devastating over the years as these two."

Aaron and Mathews, who have formed the Braves' power thrust since Aaron joined the club in 1954, did everything possible to lift the club last year. Aaron hit .327 with 34 homers and 120 runs batted in and Mathews batted .306 with 32 homers and 91 RBI.

The world champion New York Yankees came up with a top name as ace reliever Luis Arroyo received a "substantial raise" to about $17,000. The 33-year-old was rewarded for his yeoman work in the 1961 campaign when he appeared in 65 games and compiled a 15-5 record.

The Los Angeles Dodgers lured pitcher Don Drysdale and outfielder Tommy Davis into the fold, the Detroit Tigers inked pitchers Hank Aguirre and Phil Regan and outfielder Mickey Stanley and Cincinnati signed catcher Johnny Edwards.

Washington's Senators added shortstop Bob Johnson to their list of signees while Pittsburgh got infielders Coot Veal and Jose Martinez on the dotted line.

Samuelstuen Snares 3rd Ski Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Ansten Samuelstuen of Boulder, Colo., captured his third title and became one of few repeat winners when he outclassed the field in the national ski jumping championships Sunday.

The 32-year-old electronics technician, who was born in Norway, negotiated the Norge Ski Club 60 meter hill with leaps of 194 and 190 feet. He collected 226.5 points based on form and distance.

Samuelstuen, who failed to make the U.S. team which will compete in the world championships in Zakopane, Poland, Feb. 18-25, also won national titles in 1957 and 1961.

Finishing second to Samuelstuen was Steve Rieschl of Steamboat Springs, Colo. Rieschl, a member of the U.S. team, had jumps of 187 and 177 feet for 212.0 points. Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., was third with 174-180 — 209.5 followed by Willie Erickson of Iron Mountain, Mich., with 175-185—208.7.

John Balfanz, 21-year-old Minneapolis truck driver who last week set an American distance record of 317 feet at Westby, Wis., to become the No. 1 man on the U.S. team, finished fifth with jumps of 182 and 167 and 207.2 points.

On The Columbiana - Lisbon Road.

Our job here at the Country Store has its interesting and its less pleasant moments. We get compliments from some of the greatest and kicks from some people that hate everyone including themselves. Some of the publicity we have been getting in national publications is bringing us many new and interesting acquaintances. Our regular people are still our life, these others the spice.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. H. T. HYMAN

Check Baby Sitter Instructions

Once again we are indebted to the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics for some very sound advice. This time about instructions for baby sitters.

With some additions of my own, here is a set of recommendations:

Don't just take any baby sitter. If you can't get someone who is known personally to you as a thoroughly reliable person, don't entrust the care of your most precious possessions to a stranger until you've checked on the applicant's personal qualifications.

IN THE CASE OF A school-girl, check with some member of the faculty. In the case of an older woman, with her clergyman or her doctor.

Before the sitter arrives, write out exact directions for the care of the children. What they're to eat and drink. When they're to go to bed. What TV programs they may see. Whether they're permitted to have a light in the bedroom. Whether the door to the room is to be shut or left open, etc.

Write down, also, the address of where you'll be. The phone number. And, if you plan to be away from a phone, the number of someone who can be called in your absence. Your parents. Your in-laws. A neighbor. Your doctor. Or your clergyman.

Write down, also, your doctor's phone number. And the numbers of the local police and fire stations.

When the sitter arrives, show her where everything is to be found. The ice box. The toilet. The phone. Your fire extinguisher. Alternate exit doors in case of an emergency, etc.

If you have an infant, be sure the sitter knows how to change diapers and burp the baby after a feeding.

If strange noises occur in your home when the heat goes on and off or when shutters bang, etc., warn the sitter of what she may hear so she doesn't go into a panic thinking someone is trying to break in. And, in case of fire, tell her to grab the children and make their escape without waiting to dress them or phone for help.

P.S. I WANT to acknowledge my indebtedness to the many readers who wrote in to give me the source of the lines "Where ignorance is bliss, 'Tis folly to be wise." The quotation is from an "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College," written by Thomas Gray, the author also of the far-famed "Elegy in a Country Churchyard."

And, at risk of contradicting Mr. Gray, I must confess that I have registered nothing blissful at this public display of my ignorance.

THE BALANCE SHEET—Government budget surpluses in the past 25 years have been small and infrequent. Greatest deficits occurred, of course, during World War II. Projected income and outgo for fiscal year 1963 (July 1, 1962-June 30, 1963) shows possible small surplus of about $500 million.

FICTION

NIGHT by Francis Pollini. A young writer tries to show the reaction of captured American troops in Korea to the Communist brainwashing techniques. In many ways he does a good job of it. Many will think that the dialogue is unnecessarily profane, and the whole book unnecessarily brutal. The fact remains that many of our men did break down under this treatment - perhaps this book will help us to understand why and to also understand what must be done to prevent any further incidents of the same sort.

IMAGE OF HELL by Steve Fisher. A psychiatrist falls victim to an obsession and by exerting too much influence on the lives of two of his patients almost causes complete disaster to both of them. The setting is Hollywood. LOVE IN A DARK HOUSE by Merla Zellerbach. Libby's father had built and operated a private mental hospital. This novel revolves around the hospital, its patients, the director, and Libby. There is much about modern treatment for mental illness, and an old-fashioned love story thrown in.

SELECTED TALES of Nikolai Leskov. This author lived in Russia from 1865-1931. He drew heavily from folk material and was indifferent to the political situation in his country. His writing is similar to that of Gogol, Tolstoy and Dostoevsky.

Mysteries:

THE WITCH OF THE LOW TIDE by John Dickson Carr. A well-drawn picture of Edwardian London forms the background for mystery and murder.

FEAR IS THE KEY by Alistair MacLean. Suspense and murder on a salvage rig in the Gulf of Mexico.

Westerns:

THE SHAMING OF BROKEN HORN by Bill Gulick. Thirteen short stories about the West by an author who is considered good by his fellow craftsmen.

TRAIL OF THE TATTERED STAR by Cliff Farrell. Civil War times in California.

BLUE FEATHER AND OTHER STORIES by Zane Grey. Three short stories by the man many people still consider the master of Western writing. These appeared originally in magazines.

For Young People:
THE LUCK OF DAPHNE TOLLIVER by Elizabeth Fiermoore. When Daphne and all her family moved into a cluttered house, it started a lot of new projects for everybody - especially Daphne.

FANCY FREE by Betty Cavanaugh. Sixteen-year-old Francesca goes on an archeological expedition with her father and assorted students.

IT COULD HAPPEN TO ANYONE by Margaret Maze Craig. Jean and her steady and their problems in their senior year in high school.
